Democracy in Washington Township—Staid Old Washington—Has Received Very Severe Setback.

HAVE INSURGENTS THERE

One Wing or Faction Circulates Petition to Get New Advisory Board Candidates.

It seems that the Democratic party, like its sister party, has its insurgents, progressive, radicals or anything which they may be called, right in its own ranks. It so happens that the little inconsistency is a purely local matter and will not materially affect the great party with the donkey emblem. The trouble all lies among the cohorts of Democracy in Washington township—staid, old, Democratic Washington—where a Republican can hardly show his head and where, whenever a Republican victory is even mentioned, they just smile and turn their heads. Washington township is so Democratic that it knows nothing else, but to have dissatisfaction in the ranks might mean its downfall.

It seems that the whole trouble lies with the township trustee and the advisory board. The Democrats of the township have already nominated their advisory board. They expected everyone to be satisfied and go right ahead and vote for the candidates as they had always done. But Lo! someone thinks, why not change the general order of things and bring Washington out into the limelight.

It is said that the candidate for trustee, if elected, would do many things which are averse to the ideas of many old Democrats in the northern township and of which they would not approve. The old party men would hold the trustee down and do not care to see him go just as far as he likes. It is understood that the present advisory board candidates are in sympathy with the trustee and would let him have a free hand, while several members of the party can not see it that way.

It now develops that these Democrats will not sit down, fold their hands and be down-trodden, but that they will show their hands. Acting accordingly, they framed a petition and are circulating it over the township in an endeavor to get signers. The petition provides that another set of candidates be nominated for the advisory board. When enough signers have been obtained, they will file their petition before the county board of commissioners and ask that it be granted—that is, the right to nominate another advisory board.

It is said that the opposite faction has not been asleep, while their enemies have been working, but rather they, too, have been up and doing. They have acted the part of a first class Pinkerton detective and have accomplished rare things with their rather vague clues. They have traced the origin of that petition and they claim that they know where it was conceived and where it was framed. The faction says the petition was made in an attorney's office in this city and they threaten to cause trouble over it, since he is a good Democrat.

It is generally understood all over Washington township that the trustee will resign if the advisory board, which would hold a restraining hand on him, is nominated and elected. In that event the advisory board would have the power to appoint its own trustee and that they would do, according to their liking.

There are trade secrets in the Chinese vermilion industry centuries old, which no foreigner has ever been able to fathom.

ARRANGES FOR TWO SPEAKINGS

County Chairman Announces That Finley P. Mount Will Talk Here on Evening of Oct. 14.

CANDIDATE ON STATE TICKET

Milroy Will Have Big Rally Day Oct. 22, When Three Speeches Will be Made.

County Chairman Verne Norris has made arrangements for two more political speakings during the present campaign, an all day rally at Milroy, and an address at the Knights of Pythias building here. Finley P. Mount of Crawfordsville, Republican candidate for attorney general will speak in this city on the evening of October fourteenth. On the twenty-second of October, the people of Milroy will enjoy an all day rally, when John H. Kiplinger of this city and A. E. Martin of South Bend will speak in the evening and W. N. Harding of Indianapolis will speak in the afternoon.

The Mount address, to be delivered here at the K. of P. building, will probably be the second speech in the Republican campaign, as Congressman Barnard opened the campaign here the first of this week. Mr. Mount will speak one week from tonight. He is one of the most prominent attorneys in the State and clearly outshines all of the legal talent of his home city, Crawfordsville, the "Athens" of Indiana, and the home of Gen. Lew Wallace. Mr. Mount is said to be one of the best orators going over the State for the Republican cause this fall.

Milroy is to enjoy an old-fashioned Republican rally on Saturday, October 22, two weeks from tomorrow. William N. Harding of Indianapolis, a man who has been prominent in State Republican politics and who is a campaign orator of considerable ability, will speak in Milroy on the afternoon of the big rally day. In the evening two speeches have been scheduled. John H. Kiplinger of the law firm of Megee & Kiplinger of this city, and A. E. Martin, formerly of the law firm of Watson, Titsworth & Green of this city, but now of South Bend, will talk in the town hall at that time.

The campaign for Rush county will be closed with a big rally on the last Saturday before election, November fifth. Bands and drum corps will be the order of the day with speeches by James E. Watson and Albert J. Beveridge. Indiana's senior senator will address an audience in the afternoon and the former representative from this district will speak in the evening.

CONDUITS BURNED OUT

Given as Cause For Arc Lights Being Out Last Night.

Many people wondered why the arc lights were not lighted in the downtown district last evening. It is also blamed on to the heavy rain which continued for three days and finally came to an end last evening. The water filled the conduits and caused bad burn-outs so that the lights went out for that reason. Superintendent A. T. Mahin shut off the power during the noon hour and repaired the damages so that the lights will be on as usual tonight.

An automobile has been brought out in Europe that is light enough to be picked up and carried by two men whom it will accommodate.

CATCHES MAN AFTER CHASE

Policeman Wolters Has an Exciting Time With Two Suspicious Characters This Morning.

HE IS AFTERWARD RELEASED

Two Tramps Caught in Trap When One Calls at Front and Other at Back Door.

Joseph Casey, who gave his home as Cincinnati and who was arrested this morning by Policeman Wolters as a suspicious character, was released this afternoon and told to "beat" it out of town. He was lodged in jail about nine o'clock and kept there until two o'clock, when he was released. The city authorities finally decided to let him go free after they arrived at the conclusion that they could make no charge against him.

On going out into the kitchen this morning, Miss Vira Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Clark in North Sexton street, discovered two strange men there. They demanded something to eat. Miss Clark was badly frightened by the intruders, but managed to tell them she had nothing. At this the men became angry and made some very unpleasant remarks to her.

From there the two strangers went to the home of Jacob Weber who lives across the street from the Clark residence and asked for a bite to eat. While he was doing this his partner went to the back door and into the kitchen. Mrs. Weber found him searching her kitchen. On being discovered he hurriedly joined his companion.

In the meantime the police had been called by Miss Clark and Officer Wolters responded. He found the two men in Arthur street, between Third and the C. H. & D. railroad. It was here that the little party really began for Mr. Wolters. He asked them to stop and in reply they started to run west on Third street. The policeman gave chase, but they were too fast for him. When they reached the L. E. & W. railroad the two men separated, one going north, the other south. This proved a puzzle for Mr. Wolters as he couldn't go both ways and whichever way he went, he was bound to lose one of them. When he got to the railroad both men were out of sight and the officer began his search.

He had about given up when he noticed some fresh mud on the steps of a coal car. On looking into the car he found one of the men, who gave his name as Casey, huddled in a corner trying to get his breath and scared almost to death. It had been a hard run for the policeman, but at last he was rewarded. After placing Casey in jail, the officer returned to the scene of action in search of the other man. But he was not successful, as the man was last seen going west on the C. H. & D. railroad.

S HURT IN RETURN TRIP

Dr. Davis Thrown Forward in His Buggy by Impact With Another.

Dr. Frank H. Davis suffered a slight wound on his face last night when he was thrown forward in his buggy, caused by the impact with another vehicle. Dr. Davis was driving back to the city last evening and did not see the buggy in front of him, the light from the electric lights blinding him. He was bleeding profusely when he arrived at his office.

Cheaper grades of bicycles are increasingly used in Japan.

LOOK FOR RUNAWAY BOY

Camden Cohern Was Last Seen in Greensburg With Artist.

The police have received the description of a runaway boy, age 15 years, height, 5 feet, 6 inches, having dark brown hair and eyes, with darker eyebrows arching high over a well rounded face, who is supposed to be located in this section of Indiana. The boy's name is Camden Cohern, and his home is in Meadville, Pa. When last seen the boy was in Greensburg, Ind., in company with a tattoo artist, who was traveling towards Rushville.

WILL MAKE LAST SPEECH OF WEEK

Congressman Barnard Will Deliver an Address in Milroy This Evening in Town Hall.

SPOKE AT CENTER LAST NIGHT

Congressman W. O. Barnard of New Castle will close his campaign in this county tonight, when he will make a speech at Milroy in the town hall. It was planned for him to talk there Wednesday night, but the weather was so unfavorable that the meeting was called off. It is expected that he will be greeted by a large crowd this evening as the weather conditions are decidedly favorable tonight.

Despite the fact that the weather was very disagreeable last night a good crowd was out to hear Judge Barnard in his third address of the week in the Center township school house. He discussed the issues of the campaign in a logical manner and defended his vote on the tariff bill.

DRUNK ON STREETS; REFUSES TO LEAVE

Sam Webb Arrested This Afternoon by City Marshal While in an Intoxicated State.

TRIAL TOMORROW MORNING

Because Sam Webb refused to go home, like City Marshal Jesse Harlow wanted him to be is now lodged in the county jail with the charge of drunkenness hanging over him. Officer Harlow asked him to go home and get off the streets. This he would not do and as a result he will appear before Mayor Black tomorrow morning to answer to the charge. The marshal led him to the corner of the jail and gave him his last chance, but this he refused.

TO TALK ON DIVORCE

Rev. Abberley Will Close Series of Lectures Sunday Night.

Those who are thinking of applying for a divorce might at least wait until the Rev. R. W. Abberley gives his lecture-sermon at the Main Street Christian church Sunday night on "The Divorce Question." The pastor promises to have some interesting things to say in regard to that which is considered an evil. The sermon is the last of a series of four on "The Wedding Ring," all of which have been enjoyed by large audiences.

RIVER WATERS ARE RECEDING

Threatened Flood, Which Promised to be Damaging, Retreats, When Heavy Rain Stops.

DID SOME DAMAGE, HOWEVER

Incessant Rain of Three Days Injured Corn Crop Considerably by Causing Stalks to Fall.

Now that the floods have abated and the surging waters are no more, Rushville can rest at ease. The rain stopped just in time to avoid a flood of such proportions, which has not been seen here in recent years. The rising waters have receded today with amazing rapidity and now scarcely anything is left to show for the rampage only the material which was washed up in the streets by the water. By noon today the water had all flowed out of the streets and was back into the mill race and in the lowlands. Julian street below Second, and Perkins street below First, show the traces of the flood by the waste material and wet condition of the streets. Flatrock is still out of its banks and the flood waters practically cover the lowlands, but it is thought that the water will be back in the stream bed before another day has passed.

The damage to the crops is almost inestimable, so farmers say. Where corn and other farm products were growing in the lowlands along the river, they were practically destroyed by the flood. The water washed corn from the ground and wrought havoc wherever it went. The flood was not the only cause and possibly did not do so much damage as the incessant heavy rain. Much of the corn over the county is now lying on the ground and farmers say that it will never be erect again as its stage of growth is too far along. The rain thoroughly soaked the corn stalks and they became so heavy that they fell to the ground. The rain in some cases beat the corn over, due to the fact that it was so heavy and continued for so long a time.

Nearly all of the corn in fields where wheat has been sown, is lying on the ground. Farmers say that it is due to the fact that wheat planting loosened the ground so that the corn stalk roots were unable to retain their hold in the ground. Most of the corn which has fallen to the ground is practically ruined. It is now very wet and its impact with the wet ground will cause it to become musty and moldy. Farmers declare that they will loose much money for this reason.

The flood waters threatened to do considerable damage in the downtown district yesterday afternoon and did do some finally. The flood caused the water to back up in the sewers and fill up several cellars of downtown business houses. Several business men went into their cellars yesterday to find eight or ten inches of water there.

The high water flooded the lower floor of one of the old buildings occupied by the Warfield & Wilson furniture factory, where Earl Kitchen is raising a large number of chickens. During the night the water drowned over two hundred valuable fowls, so Mr. Kitchen says that is a great loss to him.

Lesson II.—Fourth Quarter, For Oct. 9, 1910.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. xxv, 14-30. Memory Verse, 29—Golden Text, Matt. xxv, 21—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

This lesson, like the last one, is found only in Matthew, but a little earlier in these last days of His earthly ministry, about the time that He brought salvation to the house of Zaccheus, He spoke a parable because He was nigh to Jerusalem and because they thought that the kingdom of God should immediately appear (Luke xix, 11). These two parables cover the same period of time and teach virtually the same truths; they cover the time of the nobleman's absence in a far country to receive for himself a kingdom and to return, and during his absence the servants are expected to make diligent use of the pounds or talents with which they have been entrusted that they may give account of their stewardship at his return. "Occupy till I come" is the word to every servant (Luke xix, 14). As both John and Jesus and the twelve and the seventy had all preached that the kingdom was at hand they were all expecting it, not understanding that, Messiah being rejected by the nation and the rulers having determined to kill Him, the kingdom must wait till His return and the age of "the mystery of the kingdom" run its course. These parables tell of service in this present age and bring before us another phase of the readiness to meet Him at His coming. The redemption clothing, His righteousness, makes us fit and ready to meet Him at any time (Col. i, 12-14), but we are redeemed in order to serve Him, and for this service there will be rewards, and it is His desire that we should receive a full reward and not be ashamed before Him at His coming (II John viii; I John ii, 28; Rev. xxii, 12).

In the one parable each servant receives a pound; in the other each receives talents according to his ability. Every believer without exception receives the Holy Spirit in some measure, but the special gifts of the Spirit are given to every one severally as He will (I Cor. xii, 4-11, 18). This passage helps in some measure to understand both the pounds and the talents. There is something for every believer to do and bear, and it has long been a comfort to me to know that everything has been appointed for each individual beforehand (Eph. ii, 10), and we have only to walk with Him in that which He appoints for us. I am also comforted by remembering that He expects no service for which He has not given the ability (I Pet. iv, 10, 11). It is the greatest folly to consider others and the service they are rendering and aim to do as they are doing, for the Lord appoints "to every man his work" (Mark xiii, 34). And "every one of us shall give account of himself to God" (Rom. xiv, 12). We are here as His witnesses to manifest His life, to show forth His praises, to prove ourselves faithful stewards of His manifold grace, to serve the living and true God (Acts i, 8; I Cor. iv, 10) and our position in His kingdom will depend upon our faithfulness here.

In the parable of the pounds the servants testified "Lord, thy pound hath gained ten pounds," or "Lord, thy pound hath gained five pounds," and the reward for their faithfulness, not success, was authority over ten cities or five cities, conveying at least a suggestion of our reigning with Him over the earth (Rev. v, 10). In the parable of the talents, the servants say, "I have gained five talents more," or "I have gained two other talents." To each of these the commendation was just the same, for each had been equally faithful according to the ability given them. "Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things; I will make thee ruler over many things. Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord" (verses 21, 23). Note again that it is faithfulness, not success, that is commended. Compare xxiv, 45. There is here also the thought of ruling, but what the joy of the Lord can mean who can tell? We cannot even imagine much about either. It will all be far beyond our utmost thought. It will be His exceeding abundantly above all we can ask or think. Listen to His prayer, "Father, I will that they also whom Thou hast given Me be with Me where I am, that they may behold My glory which Thou hast given me" (John xvii, 24). And not only behold but share His glory, for He said (verse 22), "The glory which Thou gavest Me I have given them, that they may be one even as we are one."

Note that it was the pound that gained the pounds, while the other said "I have gained other talents." Both are correct, for while we work it is God working in us. We have both in I Cor. xv, 10, "I labored more abundantly than they all, yet not I, but the grace of God which was with me." It is evident that the unfaithful servant was a mere professor and knew not his Lord. Imagine a Christian saying to the Lord, "I know that thou art an hard man" (24), or, "I feared thee because thou art an austere man" (Luke xix, 21). His doom shows that he was never a true servant, for no true child of God can phrase (John iii, 16; x, 28). As to the phrase or saying, "From him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath" (verse 29), it is explained by Luke viii, 18.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 9, 1910.

Topic—Forward steps in our society.—Ex. xiv, 9-14. Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

The Israelites were in a great crisis. They had celebrated the Passover for the first time, according to the command of God in Egypt, and were now on their way to the land of Canaan. They had marched down in a rather zigzag fashion to the south and south-east and stood face to face with the Red sea, with no apparent way of crossing over. They had no ships like the Greeks and Persians to carry them across. In front of them was the sea, on another side hostile tribes and mountains to the south and southeast. Looking behind them, they saw Pharaoh and his army pursuing them.

The situation certainly seemed critical. Nor was it any wonder that they complained. We would have done the same and probably worse. But their extremity was God's opportunity, and in a short time they were commanded, while Moses held the rod over the waters of the sea, to "go forward." They instantly obeyed. God banked the water, and they crossed, and when Pharaoh and his army attempted to do the same thing the waters came down upon them, and they were drowned, and Israel rejoiced.

The busy season of the companies of the great Christian endeavor army has arrived. What should therefore be the watchword of the army, which includes all companies, each society? What could be better than the command of God through Moses to the Israelites—"Go forward," or as the topic puts it, "forward steps in our society."

Step forward under the command of God through His Son, Christ Jesus. Do what God commands. Get your orders from Christ and follow them closely.

Step forward in spite of difficulties. Look at the Israelites again. What immense difficulties they faced, but how soon they faded away when God desired it. Every society will have its difficulties. But what army ever went forth without meeting difficulties? General McClellan met some with the Army of the Potomac. General Lee found a few when he returned into Pennsylvania. Grant met more than both together, but did his men cry for graves or anything like that? Not at all. They faced the difficulties and won in spite of their society committees. Attention! You will meet difficulties. The P. M. committee will not always get the leader it wants. Will it stop there? No; it will go as many steps as needful in order to get some one who will lead. Executive committee, attention! You will have difficulties. Are you going to run away from them or pass them by or resign? If so, then you are not a "step forward" member of the committee.

Endeavorers all, attention! Each one of you will have difficulties. It may be difficult to be present or to take part or to seek a new member. Will you therefore break your pledge to God in Christ? May it not be said of you, what are all or any of the committee unless each member is ready to obey the command? Did the Israelites hesitate when they saw the water go up? There is no historic record to that effect. Instead, each one stepped forward, and I imagine with a quick step and even double quick.

Step forward in spite of complainers. These people cried out against Moses. They wanted to know if there was not enough burying ground in Egypt that they must die under such circumstances—slain by Pharaoh's army.

Did you ever hear of a society without a "kicker," to use an expressive word, if not so elegant? Every society on earth ought to have a "complaint committee" to meet monthly to hear all complaints and to adjust them. Seriously, this might give us a new committee and be a step forward. In some societies it would be a live wire, but after the adjustment be made it should stand, and the subject should be dropped. Then, associated with the "complaint committee," there might be a "burial committee." The complainers wanted a decent burial. Many Endeavorers at least need it. They are dead and need to be buried so far as the Christian Endeavor society is concerned. Better to have ten Endeavorers unenrolled than a hundred enrolled and still only have the ten real ones.

Step forward to a revival. Do not, however, seek to add a great list of new members to your roll, but take off one-third to one-half. An evangelist in Ohio was once asked by a newspaper reporter about the success of a work just closed. The answer was that it was the greatest revival he ever had. "How many did you receive?" "Not one," said the minister, "but we put out forty and are now ready for a true evangelistic work." If this example were followed in more churches and in Christian Endeavor societies there would indeed be many true revivals.

Following a newspaper suggestion made by George J. Michelbach, the Christian Endeavorers and the Epworth Leaguers of Binghamton, N. Y., distributed a large amount of good literature and great quantities of flowers among the men and women traveling with Buffalo Bill's Wild West show. The Republicans of Richland township will hold a convention next Saturday at 9:30 a. m. at the Richland school house.

HARRY COLTER, Committeeman.

The real reason for the high price of rubber overshoes is unquestionably the increase demand caused by the frequency of the gum shoe campaign.

Republican extravagance is one of the strong Democratic arguments, but the Congressional Record will show that the Democrats were equally forward with their votes for the old flag and an appropriation.

The determining factor in the election of a Congress is the question of the full dinner pail. The voter cares nothing about whole libraries of political economy, when he remembers how the ham sandwiches rattled around in the emptiness of 1893-96.

The last time the Democrats built a tariff, their president and favorite leader called their architecture by such words as "perfidy and dishonor." Will they be any better able now to show themselves anything more than journeymen carpenters?

Half a dozen years ago it was commonly remarked that no politician would dare to attack the illegal doings of the trusts. Now a systematic campaign against law breaking has been carried on, and Republicans have done every bit of it.

Even the small boy who whispers in school calls himself a "Progressive."

Congressman W. O. Barnard is making a quiet and dignified canvas throughout this county and is having splendid meetings. The more the people know about Mr. Barnard the more they realize that he is an honest, thoughtful and courageous legislator, a man who does not make much noise about what he is doing, but one who thinks a proposition through before he acts. These are the men who are safest to trust with the legislation of a government as big and powerful as ours. The man who is all things to all men has no business in the halls of congress. The people are rallying to his support and will return him for another term and this is as it should be.

The history of the Democratic party has been a long story of flirting with unsound finance. In the old days it was State banks, in the '70s it was fiat money, in the 90s it was an attempt to dilute the honest dollar with silver, and in 1908 it was the guaranty of bank deposits. To what kite like vagary will they become the tail next?

Hearst's Independence League seems to be troubled with insurgency within its ranks. The party nominated a straight ticket in opposition to the wishes of Hearst, its creator and boss. We are in the days of party-quakes, but the everyday man is going right along with this work of winning a living for himself and family all the same.

The Appearance of Prosperity.

The first essential in drawing new trade is to prove that you already have a prosperous business. The public believes that if a man is winning out he will be doing a large business, and if his business is small, it proves that he does not "have the goods."

These things go largely by appearances. The liberal advertiser gets the credit of doing a big business, whether he is or no. If he sticks to his publicity program for a reasonable time, he is sure to get the big trade merely because he makes the public believe he already has it.

On the other hand, the man who advertises in a meagre manner is generally credited with being out of the game. A small space in the newspaper is held to indicate small hopes of getting the trade, and it brings a small share of public interest. The size of your business will bear a close relation to the ratio between your advertising and that of your competitors.

Exchange Values.

Does the Indiana farmer yearn for an era of low prices? asks an exchange. If he contains in his being any such yearning, he knows how he can go about getting back to 1896.

Does the Indiana wage-earner hanker for a return to an era of low wages or idleness? If there is in any workingman's heart a desire for the cheap times of old, he knows well how he can vote himself into a position where work will be scarce and ill paid.

Indiana Democrats are crying aloud for lower prices. They propose to revise the tariff to a revenue-only basis, thus admitting foreign competition and cutting American prices downward. They propose to cut off all protection given to American labor. They propose to put American labor on a level with foreign, cheaper labor, thus making American labor cheaper.

Now the American mechanic, as shown by statistics, under protection, drew in 1907, $1, where the British mechanic under free trade got 40 to 49 cents. So any leveling of the price of labor means a leveling downward of American wages. Democrats do not propose to lift foreign labor to the American wage standard. They propose to drag down American labor to the cheap foreign standard. In cutting down commodity prices they plan to lower the price of the commodity called labor.

So far as the farmer is concerned he knows that he can exchange his products in 1910 for much more of the commodities than he could get in trade in 1896. He finds he can trade ten bushels of corn for 70 pounds of coffee in 1910, against 21 pounds of coffee in 1896. He can exchange ten bushels of corn in 1910 for 131 pounds of granulated sugar, where in 1896 the same corn brought only 59 pounds of granulated sugar. He can trade ten bushels of corn for 1,040 bricks this year, where in 1896 the same corn would have brought but 519 of the same brick.

Exchange values count.

EDITORIALETTES.

The floods have abated and once more calm Rushville has resumed the even tenor of its ways.

Many a proud corn stalk has been forced to bow its head in the slimy mud in these days of the "reign" of the weather man.

They say that there are a whole lot of jobs right here in Rushville that are better than being the King of Portugal.

Did you ever notice that the politician who harrangues against the existing order of things, generally appeals to the populace in general?

If that be true, perhaps there is method in their madness.

It is said that some people were actually becoming webbed footed since the late and lamented rain has been in progress.

Watch Rushville Shine—That is after tonight's council meeting.

What would this country be without a political party? The man who says that he will hew to no party lines and who pays no respect to the great organization which has doubly honored him, is without honor, even among his own people.

"This is the most important year in politics, that this fair United States has ever seen," says the politician.

But every year's a big year with him, just as every day is labor day for most of us.

OF HUMAN INTEREST.

A good one is told on Frank Wooster, who works for Mayor Black. Mr. Wooster has been in the habit of getting up at four-thirty and feeding the horses. Then he hitches up and drives to the store. Well, the other morning the alarm clock rang as usual and Mr. Wooster hurried out to his work. He soon had everything in readiness for the day and was waiting at the store for some one to open up. He noticed that everything was quiet on the streets and not a person in sight. But he never thought anything of this, for such is often the case so early in the morning. After he had waited for a long time, someone did finally come by. On asking the time of the day Mr. Wooster discovered that he had gotten up at two-thirty instead of four-thirty. Someone had tampered with the alarm and how was Frank to know what time he was getting up.

Tale of the Hobble Skirt

Parisian pickpockets are reaping a harvest through the prevalence of the hobble skirts, says a Paris dispatch. Realizing that women wearing these freak skirts can not walk rapidly, much less run, thieves have become very bold in the depredations upon women pedestrians. A peculiar case illustrated not only the truth of this, but shows that slaves of fashion sometimes suffer greatly for their wanton vanity. Mme. Detriere, wife of a mining engineer, is in the hospital suffering from a broken leg and internal injuries, while the police are searching for a sneak thief who stole her handbag and purse.

While alighting from a taxicab in front of the residence of a friend in the Boulevard St. Germain the hobble skirt retarded Mme. Detriere's movements so that she fell and was badly hurt. A pickpocket, running up, snatched her handbag containing her purse. At the time no one had seen the theft committed, and it was not until the victim recovered from the faint into which she had fallen that she became aware of her loss.

Mme. Monetrey of Enghien is another victim of fashion's decree. She is suffering from two broken ankles, the result of a fall which, in turn, was occasioned by a hobble skirt. A number of other accidents have taken place, but I do not have the names at hand.

The feature of the bill at the Colonial theater, Indianapolis, next week will be Miss Mabel McKinley, in a number of songs. Miss McKinley is best remembered as the favorite niece of President McKinley, and during his administration she was the center of the social activities at the White House. After the death of her uncle, the President, she went upon the stage as a singer in vaudeville, and has been one of the most sought attractions in the business. Miss McKinley is a strikingly attractive young woman, and a soprano singer of excellent repute, and she will doubtless attract the lovers of good vaudeville next week. The Colonial gives a daily matinee and a continual performance from 7:30 to 11 at night with two complete bills.

Clarence Eward and Miss Isabelle Willard will go to Rushville Monday and Tuesday evenings where they will render their first performance at the Star Grand theater in that city, says the Greensburg News. Mr. Eward has been employed as the singer and Miss Willard as pianist in the nickels in this city for some time. Both are accomplished in their line and can be highly recommended to the patrons of the theater in the sister city. Mr. Eward has informed us that for the remainder of the week he would be at the Palace theater in Greensburg.

The Star Grand will present two pictures tonight. The first is entitled "Memento of the Past," a touching drama full of pathos and acted to perfection. It is a strong story that will soften the heart strings of all. The second is entitled "Kids Will be Kids," a combination of comedy and acrobatics cleverly acted by two little children. Earl Robertson will sing "Goodbye Rose."

The Vaudet will have a good program tonight with the big Bison feature film, "A Ranchman's Simple Son," or "Simple Simon, a Hero." It is said to be a comedy of rare merits and tells a tale, rich with dramatic action and intermingled with a few rather humorous incidents. A new illustrated song will be on the program.

The Palace management offers a program tonight which promises to rival with the one shown last night in the Lubin film, "The Man Who Died." It is said to be a drama worth seeing with a strong plot, which depicts a story of intense interest. The picture contains some rather melodramatic situations which are said to be very thrilling. A new illustrated song will be sung.

KNIGHTS MAKE IMPORTANT RULE

Permanent Pass Work of K. of P.'s Repealed and Semi-Annual Pass Word Re-Established.

RULING ON "GOOD STANDING"

The Supreme Lodge Knights of Pythias convention which convened recently in Milwaukee, made a number of important rulings of interest to Knights of Pythias. The permanent pass word which was established four years ago was repealed and the semi-annual pass word re-established. This is thought by Local Knights to be a wise change.

Another action of the supreme lodge was to empower the grand lodges to admit to their membership keepers of record and seal, masters of finance and masters of exchequer after five years of continuous service. Heretofore only past chancellors were eligible to attend the sessions of grand lodge, but, is now optional with the grand lodge as to the additional members named above. The five years service clause applies to those who have as well as to those who shall serve that time.

Important ruling was made relative to the meaning of the term "good standing" in the lodge and another relative to admission of members who have received "dismissed certificates."

I am located at my old stand and still doing business at rock bottom prices. O. H. Bradway, next to P. O.

LORD LOVELAND DISCOVERS AMERICA

BY C.N. & A.M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1910, by Doubleday, Page & Company
Copyright, 1908, by the McClure Company

He remembered hearing Betty or Jim Harborough say that in American towns a man might call upon a family he knew well up to the hour of 10 in the evening. It was not nearly 10 yet, and, though there was no family in New York whom Val knew well, it was a case of any port in a storm.

The Coolidges were now out of the running, and the Miltons, but a Mr. and Mrs. Beverly with a daughter had

"THEY ARE TOO MUCH ENGAGED TO SEE ANYBODY TONIGHT."

(half apologetically) invited him to visit at their house in Park avenue. They were rich or richish, though with a trail of trade behind them, and the girl was pretty or prettyish.

He had cannily refused the invitation, pleading many engagements difficult to keep if visiting, but he could easily explain the late call by lightly recounting the story of his misfortune, making a jest of it and throwing himself on the family's mercy. He hoped and believed that they would insist upon his staying all night in their house; also that a loan sufficient to pay his hotel bill and redeem his luggage might be suggested.

The prospect of release from all his woes was so soothing and apparently so easy to compass that the mere thought was a warming cordial. Val walked briskly back into Fifth avenue and asked the way of the first man he met. He found Park avenue a dignified street and with the pleasantest anticipations ran up the steps of the Beverly's house, the number of which had fortunately stuck in his memory. There were lights in all the windows of the two lower floors, and as he pressed the electric bell he saw a shadow flit across the half transparent silk curtains, a shadow which was like a faint silhouette of plump little Madge Beverly.

To The Public.

Realizing the fact that it has been very inconvenient, and often times unsatisfactory to myself, as well as to my patients, for me to be out of town two days each week, I take pleasure in announcing that having now disposed of my Greensburg practice I will hereafter devote my full time to my home office. In the past I have been too busy to devote as much time to acute practice as was necessary, hence this change will enable me to answer all outside calls and give treatments in your homes more extensively. Very Respectively yours for better service.

HOME ENDORSEMENT

Hundreds of Rushville Citizens Can Tell You All About It.

Home endorsement, the public expression of Rushville people should be evidence beyond dispute for every Rushville reader. Surely the experience of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in faraway places. Read the following:

W. H. Hudson, 1015 North Harrison street, Rushville, Ind., says: "I hold a very high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills, although I have never used them myself. About six years ago when living in Vernon, Ky., a member of my family was annoyed by pains across the small of the back and other symptoms of kidney complaint. At that time I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a supply. They acted just as represented and in a short time their use brought entire relief. I have unlimited faith in the curative powers of Doan's Kidney Pills and do not hesitate to give them my endorsement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

"It's all right. They're at home, thank goodness," he said to himself as he waited for the door to open, and a sense of calm well being fell upon him with the assurance that his troubles were over at last.

A neat servant was soon framed against a yellow background of cheerful light, and at some distance, screened in shadow, the man who had followed Loveland waited once more with a certain anxiety in his eyes.

Val inquired for Mr. and Mrs. Beverly. They were at home, said the servant, in the "living room" with a party of relatives who had come to welcome them back after their visit to Europe. If the gentleman would step into the reception room and send up his card Mr. and Mrs. Beverly would no doubt be down in a minute.

"But when people are at home one doesn't send in one's card," said Loveland, arguing according to English ways. "Tell your master and mistress that Lord Loveland has called, but will not keep them long from their friends," said Val, growing impatient under the man's narrow look.

The servant resented the suggestion that as a free man in a free country he could have a master and mistress. And a Lord Anybody sounded like a practical joke to him, for though he had begun by being a Swede, he had been an American since he was short coated. However, he was well trained, according to his lights and the family traditions of the Beverlys. He ushered the practical joker into a handsome drawing room and vanished upstairs to explain the odd young gentleman who never announced himself with cards.

The servant returned with a grave face. Indeed, it could not have been more solemn if he had come to break the news that all Lord Loveland's surviving relatives had perished together in a holocaust.

"Mr. and Mrs. Beverly are very sorry, sir," said the man, "but they are too much engaged to see anybody tonight."

Val rose haughtily. "I'll trouble you to open the door," he said as the servant stood petrified. And so once more Lord Loveland was thrown upon the hospitality of the streets. The fitting shadows were gone from the windows, which still gleamed cheerily. But they were dark to the outcast's heart.

CHAPTER X. A PROPOSITION.

NATURALLY it occurred to Val that the trail of Cadwallader Hunter must have reached as far as the Beverly household, and almost he found it in his heart to respect a man with executive ability to accomplish so swift, so sweeping, so secret a revenge.

"The old fellow must have had a busy day," Loveland thought, half amused on top of hunger and discouragement. He pictured the major running lightly about since the snub at lunch time up to the last moment before dressing for dinner prejudicing all the friends made on board the Mauretania against the Englishman to whom he had proudly introduced them.

And, besides, one must grant a certain cleverness to a brain able to weave grounds of prejudice against a person—nay, a personage—important and unimpeachable, as Loveland considered himself to be. How Cadwalader Hunter had done it Val could not imagine. But that the mysterious thing which had been done was the major's work he did not doubt.

Loveland had conscientiously distributed all the letters in the afternoon and had put the Waldorf-Astoria hotel as a New York address on his visiting cards. Now, owing to unforeseen circumstances (another name for the major's vindictiveness), that address was his no longer. When people called, as no doubt they would do tomorrow, they were likely to find that he had vanished into space. Yes, without doubt the best thing he could do was to call tonight at one of the houses where he had alighted in the afternoon. He would walk to the nearest one; but, now he came to think of it, which was the nearest and of which was he certain that he could remember the street and number? He went over the eight or nine names in his head and thought that he had kept them all straight, but to save his life he could not say which number, which street, appertained to which person.

This was a dilemma, almost a calamity. But one address seemed to stand out before his eyes, a number in Fifth avenue, and he thought it was a Mrs. Anson who lived there. The house was a handsome one at a corner. He had admired it, and as it was not far uptown he would not have more than a mile to travel. He could still make his visit and tell his pitiful tale before 10 o'clock.

He walked fast, and it was by an effort that the man of the shadows kept him in sight, for Val's legs were long, and his were not. But he did not contrive to cling close enough to see a tall figure slowly descend a flight of stone steps climbed with alert hopefulness a few moments earlier.

This time there was a discouraged droop of the head and shoulders, a dragging hesitation in the gait, which seemed to show that the wanderer did not know what his next move ought to be.

At last the watcher decided that he had waited long enough. The Englishman had come to the end of his tether. He was tired out and sick at heart—in fact, precisely in the mood which the other had been patiently expecting.

Loveland walked away from the house where Mrs. Anson was "giving a dinner party and regretted that she was unable to receive visitors." Jim Harborough's friend! Could it be that Cadwallader Hunter's tentacles had wormed themselves round this lady's sympathies also, or was the dismissal another coincidence, like that of the bank?

"Good evening," said the man who had caught up with him, speaking somewhat breathlessly, but in a friendly voice.

REMARKABLE RECORD

Flesh-forming Food That Succeeds Nearly Every Time.

A man or woman might as well starve outright as to take food into the stomach and not have it assimilated, yet in Rushville as well as in every other town and city, there are many people who are thin, pale and seem underfed, simply because the food they eat is not assimilated, and fails to make good blood and firm flesh.

Samose, the wonderful flesh-forming food, taken before or after meals, mingles with the food, so that it is assimilated by the system and makes rich blood and pleasing plumpness.

Anyone who is thin, weak, scrawny and emaciated can put 50c. on deposit with Thos. W. Lytle and take home a box of Samose. If the treatment does not give a noticeable increase in good firm flesh and restore strength and health he will return the money without any question. Sent postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cts.

"I was dining near you at the Waldorf-Astoria," explained the unknown. "Oh!" Loveland said. "You were with the Coolidges, I remember." The tips of his ears began to tingle.

"My name's Milton," the short, dark man introduced himself. "I've been trying to catch you up for some time. I know you met my wife and daughter on the Mauretania. That's why I was anxious to make your acquaintance."

Loveland laughed. "You're the first person since I left the ship who has wanted to make it," he retorted. "And it struck me this evening that neither Mrs. nor Miss Milton was keen on keeping it."

"Miss Milton is a child," answered Miss Milton's father. "She doesn't say her soul's her own if her mother says it isn't, and Mrs. Milton has reasons over and above what any one else may have for not wanting to know you in front of me."

"Over and above what any one else may have?" Val repeated, lost in surprise at this turning. "Why should she or any one have reasons for not wanting to know me? That's the thing I should like to find out. Perhaps you'll be good enough to explain the mystery—if you can. What has Major Cadwallader Hunter been doing to put all New York against me?"

"So far as I can see, it wasn't the major who set the ball rolling, though, of course, he'd like people to think he was on to it from the first. And it seems he heard you give yourself away a bit to a girl one day on ship-board, or says he did. But let's not discuss that now. What you are or what you did before you stepped on board the Mauretania is nothing to me. The game you and I are in together, as it's up to me to show you, is this: You're in a pretty bad scrape, and you want to get out of it. Is that true or isn't it?"

"Yes, it's true enough," admitted Val. "But that's not the question, I'm concerned. I don't go back on that. I don't want to know anything or be in anything else. I can help you out of your fix. That's what I'm here to do."

"Thank you," said Val dryly. "But why?" He half expected that Mr. Milton's quid pro quo would be a promise in advance to make Fanny the Marchioness of Loveland.

"Well, I'm coming to that in one minute and a half. First and foremost, let's chat about what I can do for you. Then we'll get to what you can do for me. I guess a thousand dollars would come handy to you, wouldn't it, especially if you could see half in hard cash tonight?"

"If I saw any 'hard cash,' as you call it, lying in the street and nobody claimed it I confess I might find a temporary use for the money," said Loveland. "The trouble is my letter of credit."

"I know all about that letter of credit just as well as if you'd told me," broke in Mr. Milton.

"Tomorrow it will be all right," Val went on.

"I wouldn't bet on its being all right tomorrow," said Milton. "But we can wait to talk business till the day after if you like. That'll suit me just as well, for I stand to make better terms. It's for you to say where. I can give you my card, and you can drop round at my club."

"What do you want me to do?" sharply asked Loveland.

"You'd like to know whether the candle's worth the game, eh? Well, I'm no Shylock. But see here—shall we come to terms over a drink? We're not far off the best bar in New York, and"—

Who does not know of the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, put up an ideal preparation of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. It is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, and is sent direct by the manufacturers upon receipt of price.

Member of Organization Sought Life of Visiting Chinese Prince as Latter Alighted From Train at Oakland Ferry, but Secret Service Agent Moffatt Was on the Job and Would-Be Assassin Was Quickly Quieted.

San Francisco, Oct. 7.—An attempt to assassinate Prince Tsai Hsun, head of the Imperial Chinese naval commission to the United States, as he left his special train at Oakland Mole last evening, was frustrated by Secret Service Agent Harry Moffatt, who arrested George Fong, a California-born Chinese and a member of the Young China party, while drawing a loaded revolver from his pocket.

Fong was among the immense throng which lined the station platform to greet the prince, and but for the fact that the train failed to stop at the usual place in the trainshed, he would have been successful.

Moffatt had been previously warned that an attempt might be made on the life of the distinguished visitor, and was on the lookout, Fong having been pointed out to him as a leading member of the Young China party. As the huge engine passed the spot where it would usually stop, Fong ran with the crowd in an effort to be on the ground when the prince landed. He took off his gloves when he was seized by Moffatt and hastened from the ferryboat, while the prince and his party were escorted to the naval tug Unadilla. The arrest was made so quietly that no one of the large crowd, either with the prince or among the commuters, knew of it.

Fong made no secret of his intentions when questioned, and declared he intended to rid his country of one of its enemies. He declared that as a member of the Young China party, he considered it his duty to kill the prince and his aide and assist in the progress of the movement to free China of the rule of Manchu.

THE COLD SHOULDER

Was Turned Toward Governor Warner by Michigan Republicans.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 7.—In Senator Smith's keynote speech at the Republican state convention here, not once was the name of Governor Warner mentioned. The resolutions carefully abstained from mentioning either the governor or his administration. The governor was in the hall, but not on the platform. Prolonged cheering followed the mention of both Taft's and Roosevelt's names.

In the platform the Payne-Aldrich tariff was commended for articles put on the free list, and for the revenues it has produced. It is not endorsed, however, as a carrying out of campaign promises. The president and congress are strongly endorsed.

The following ticket was nominated: Governor, Charles S. Osborne; lieutenant governor, John Q. Ross; secretary of state, F. C. Martindale; state treasurer, Albert E. Sleeper; attorney general, Franz C. Kuhn; supreme court justice, John E. Bird; auditor general, O. B. Fuller.

THEY DENY IT ALL

Both Browne and Broderick Testify Before Committee.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Lee O'Neil Browne, accused of bribing Illinois legislators to vote for William Lorimer for United States senator, and acquitted recently of that charge in the criminal court, took the witness stand at the senatorial investigation and for the first time publicly began a denial of the charges so often made against him. The minority leader began his testimony with disputing evidence given by legislators who accuse him of bribery. He either denied all the charges of bribery or evaded by answering, "I don't remember."

Absolute denial of the payment of $2,500 or any other sum to State Senator Holstlaw, or any other legislator in connection with the election of Lorimer was made by State Senator John Broderick. Broderick underwent a severe cross-examination, but remained unshaken.

HORACE WHITEFollowing Resignation of Hughes
He Is Governor of New York.A RUNAWAY FREIGHT IN A FREAK WRECKPushes House Into Street Without Upsetting Things.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 7.—The two-story frame house of Caleb C. Stover was lifted from its foundation by a runaway freight car early this morning and landed in the middle of Mulberry road with its sleeping occupants. The car, which was heavily loaded, broke away from the freighthouse of the Pennsylvania railroad and ran down grade into the Stover home. Mrs. Stover, the only member of the family awake at the time, was thrown violently to the floor and rendered unconscious. Her three boys, her father and a daughter, all of whom were in bed, were uninjured. The pictures stayed on the walls, the lamps moved a little on the tables but did not upset, the clock in the parlor kept on running, but the one in the kitchen stopped exactly at 12:30; the house cat left hurriedly and the dog's sleep was interrupted. The articles in the kitchen and cellar were ruined. In other parts of the house, however, they were not disturbed.

VOTED IT DOWN

Bishops Oppose Deputies in Episcopal Convention.

The house of bishops voted it down. A conference committee was appointed for further consideration of the matter. The house of bishops also failed to confirm another proposed amendment making the office of the presiding bishop an elective one with a term of six years.

SUCCEEDS HUGHES

Lieutenant Governor White Is Now Governor of New York.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Governor Hughes took a loving cup with him when he left last evening for Washington, where on Monday he is to take his place upon the United States supreme court bench. It was the gift of the members of his military staff and was presented to the governor at the conclusion of the executive mansion farewell luncheon.

Lieutenant Governor Horace White succeeded Charles E. Hughes as governor of New York state yesterday afternoon. The ceremony attending the change in administration was the briefest possible. When Governor Hughes handed his resignation to Secretary of State Keene the office of governor then became vacant and by law Lieutenant Governor White became governor. All that remained was for him to take the oath of office. The secretary of state, turning to the lieutenant governor, administered the regulation oath, and Governor White then affixed his signature to the oath in the record book.

The trouble between the Federation of Master Cotton Spinners, which resulted in the lockout of 130,000 operatives at Manchester, England, has been settled and the mills will be opened at once.

LAST MAN WILL NOT 'COME BACK'

Ed Eck, Who Was Last of Number to Disappear From St. Paul, Says
he Will Never Return.

LOCATES IN DENVER, COLO.

Developes That Theft of $59 is Not
First Piece of Trickery Young Man Has Done.

The fourth man to leave St. Paul was Ed Eck. Part of them "come back" but Ed won't, says the Greensburg Democrat. He is in Denver, Colo., trying to spend the $59 that left with him. The money belonged to Ed's aunt, but he didn't care so he just took it along with him for pin money.

Eck was employed on the farm of John Meyers, a farmer living a mile north of town, and at night went to the home of his aunt, Mrs. Luella Eck nearby and remained over night. A week ago Sunday night Mrs. Eck went to Waldron to church and not desiring to leave the money in the house nor carry so much on her person, turned it over to Ed for safe keeping. He took the money and said "nobody will get this away from me."

He kept his word and disappeared. Nobody knew his whereabouts until yesterday, when Orville Meyers received a souvenir post card from him postmarked at Denver, Col. There was nothing on the card but his signature. He formerly worked in that locality and it is presumed that he will remain there.

His father, George Eck, Sr., a venerable German farmer, living south of town, has announced his intention of making Mrs. Eck's loss good.

In conversation with the elder Mr

Eck, it now develops that this is not the only piece of trickery that his son has been guilty of. Mr. Eck stated that shortly after his son's arrival home from the west, March 7,—to be exact—Ed received a registered letter from a man in Colorado. The letter contained $30 and a request for him to come at once and accept employment. Senior Mr. Eck persuaded Ed to remain in Indiana as there was plenty of work here and told him to return the man's money, which had been sent to pay his expenses to Colorado. Ed said he would and the old gentleman believed that he had done so.

It now develops that he kept this also, as the father has been apprised by attorney McDaniels of Shelbyville, that he holds a bill for $30 for collection against Ed Eck, in favor of the Colorado farmer, who so freely forwarded the traveling expenses.

VERDICT FOR PLAINTIFF.

In the default of the defendant, Judge Sparks returned judgment for the plaintiff for $71.40 in the case of the Federal Chemical company against John B. Ryburn et al., on a note demanding $75, in the circuit court today.

It is well to remember that many plants which once were used as vegetables have been allowed to drop out of our bills of fare. Our forefathers, for instance, sometimes dined off elder: top and burdock root, and the early shoots of the hop were considered a great delicacy and were cooked and eaten as asparagus.

The sardine industry gives employment, in the Spanish port of Vigo, to twenty-three thousand people, of whom eight thousand are women. The wages of the men range 80 cents to $1 a day, and of the women, from 25 to 35 cents. The value of preserved sardines exported last year was $2,203,500.

Do forests influence rainfall? The question has been answered both ways, but there are no reliable statistics on the matter. The recognition of this fact has led the United States weather bureau and the United States forest service to undertake jointly a series of investigations to supply the data needed.

One of the prettiest home weddings of the season was solemnized at the home of Seward Whitman of Milroy Wednesday evening, when his pretty daughter, Miss Nelle Whitman, became the bride of Forest Harecourt, also of Milroy. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. W. Baldridge, pastor of the M. E. church of Milroy in the presence of about forty guests, the relatives and Miss Whitman's most intimate friends.

The home was beautifully decorated in ferns and roses, the color scheme being pink and white. The bridal party marched in to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Mary Walker of Milroy. The bride was gown in white and carried roses. After the ceremony the wedding supper was served, the color scheme being carried out in this also.

The bride is one of Milroy's prettiest young ladies and is very popular in religious and social circles. The groom is a prominent young farmer of Rush county. They will make their home on Mr. Whitman's farm, west of Milroy.

WARN MILLINERS TO BE PREPARED

Thieves, Who Loot Stores of Ostrich
Plumes and Fancy Trimming,
Working in This Section.

MIGHT MAKE A GOOD HAUL

Local millinery stores are warned to be on the lookout for millinery thieves who are just now working Indiana territory, their object appearing to loot stores of ostrich plumes and fine trimmings, which can readily be turned into money. They work something like the silk thieves who seem to have let up in their operations in this vicinity, for a while at least.

The thieves are liable to invade this city at any time and it would be well for milliners carrying large and costly stocks to take extra precautions to protect themselves. Local milliners do not carry very large stocks of silk, but with the plumes, silk and flowers in most places where ladies' head-gear is manufactured there is sufficient to attract thieves and a good quantity of goods might be added to their list in this city.

COUNTY MUST PAY CITY BY MONTH

Court Decision at Frankfort Says
Treasurer Must Settle With City Every 30 Days.

THE SAME DISCUSSION IS HERE

Though there has been no controversy here, the question of when or how often county treasurers must turn over city money collected as taxes has caused much strife and trouble throughout the State. A Lafayette special says:

Word has been received from Frankfort that special Judge D. S. Holman has decided in favor of the city of Lafayette in its suit against County Treasurer Duncan to require him to turn over to the city each month the money he collects as city taxes. The court holds that the city has a right to mandate the county treasurer and that it is his duty to turn over to the city, monthly, the money collected as city taxes, instead of holding it for six months as he is now doing.
